Flight: LH467 – San Diego (SAN) → Munich (MUC)

Date of Cancellation: 23 June 2026

Submission Date: 26 June 2026

Executive Summary

To Whom It May Concern,

I am submitting this claim in relation to the cancellation of Lufthansa flight LH467 from San Diego (SAN) to Munich (MUC) on 23 June 2026 and the resulting disruption to my family's travel to Kraków, Poland.

This claim concerns four passengers travelling under a single reservation:

- Gordon Kelly
- Barbara Kelly
- Oliver Kelly
- Alexander Kelly

Our original itinerary was scheduled to depart San Diego on 23 June 2026 and arrive in Kraków on 24 June 2026.

Following the cancellation of LH467, Lufthansa rebooked our family onto an alternative itinerary departing on 25 June 2026 and arriving in Kraków on 26 June 2026 at 09:30, resulting in an approximate two-day delay to our final destination.

Lufthansa's cancellation notice, included within this submission, states that LH467 was cancelled due to a “lack of the planned crew.”

The cancellation occurred after passengers had boarded the aircraft and following a prolonged series of operational delays that were communicated to passengers by Lufthansa personnel and the flight crew.

As a direct consequence of the cancellation, my family has incurred documented transportation, meal, and baggage expenses. We also experienced disruption to pre-arranged travel arrangements associated with our arrival in Poland.

This submission contains:

- Lufthansa ticket receipts for all four passengers.
- Original and rebooked itineraries.
- Delay and cancellation notifications.
- Checked baggage receipt emails (including baggage tag numbers) (Attachment I).

- American Express card statement documenting original Lufthansa excess baggage fees ($6 \times $90.00$) (Attachment T).
- Transportation and meal receipts.
- Documentation relating to replacement-itinerary baggage fees (United outbound documented).
- Documentation relating to an impacted Hertz rental vehicle reservation.
- Photographic evidence documenting conditions following the cancellation.
- A detailed passenger narrative describing the events preceding the cancellation.
- Information relating to an independent passenger witness who observed the same events and voluntarily exchanged contact information for corroboration purposes.

The evidentiary record has been organized chronologically and by category to facilitate efficient review.

I respectfully request:

1. Review of our entitlement to compensation under applicable passenger-rights regulations.
2. Reimbursement of documented out-of-pocket expenses incurred as a direct consequence of the cancellation.
3. Reimbursement of United Airlines replacement-itinerary baggage fees as a direct consequence of rebooking: $210.00 outbound documented.
4. Review of additional documented losses resulting from the disruption, including an estimated $121.39 loss of prepaid Hertz rental value due to approximately two days' delayed pickup.

Passenger Rights Basis for Claim

This claim includes a request for compensation pursuant to Regulation (EC) No. 261/2004 (“EU261”), applicable to flights operated by European Union carriers, including Lufthansa.

Flight LH467 was operated by Lufthansa and was cancelled on 23 June 2026.

Lufthansa subsequently rebooked our family on an alternative itinerary resulting in an arrival at our final destination approximately two days later than originally scheduled.

Lufthansa’s cancellation notice states that the flight was cancelled due to a “lack of the planned crew.”

This written reason is consistent with what passengers were told onboard. Following prolonged operational delays while the aircraft was boarded—including accommodation of additional passengers, baggage loading delays, and catering issues—the captain advised that the flight crew could no longer legally operate the flight because of duty-hour limitations. On the information presently available, the cancellation therefore appears attributable to the cumulative effect of Lufthansa’s operational delays and staffing constraints, rather than an extraordinary circumstance beyond the carrier’s control.

Under Article 9 of EU261, where passengers face a long delay or rebooking following cancellation, the operating carrier must provide care—including meals, refreshments, and hotel accommodation where necessary—free of charge. Following cancellation of LH467, Lufthansa did not provide hotel accommodation, meal vouchers, or transportation assistance to our family. We have self-funded documented meals and ground transportation to date. As local residents, we returned home rather than pay exceptional hotel rates during a major event in San Diego. We respectfully request that Lufthansa review these out-of-pocket care expenses for reimbursement in addition to any compensation under Article 7.

Based on the information presently available, we respectfully request that Lufthansa review our entitlement to compensation under EU261 and any other applicable passenger-rights regulations.

This request is separate from and in addition to reimbursement of documented out-of-pocket expenses incurred as a direct consequence of the cancellation.

Potential EU261 Compensation Calculation

Passenger	Potential Compensation
Gordon Kelly	€600
Barbara Kelly	€600
Oliver Kelly	€600
Alexander Kelly	€600
Total Potential Compensation	€2,400

This calculation is provided for reference and remains subject to Lufthansa's review and determination.

Baggage Documentation

Checked baggage accepted by Lufthansa at approximately 14:37 PDT on 23 June 2026.

We actually paid for three bags, but only brought two bags to the airport.

Baggage Tag Numbers:

- 0220272283
- 0220272244

Supporting documentation attached:

- Baggage receipt emails (including baggage tag numbers) (Attachment I).
- American Express card statement documenting six Lufthansa excess baggage charges of $90.00 each ($540.00 total) (Attachment T).

As a direct consequence of Lufthansa's cancellation and rebooking, our family incurred additional baggage fees on the replacement itinerary with United Airlines. Outbound fees ($210.00) are paid and receipt attached (Attachment J); checked baggage tags for the replacement itinerary are attached (Attachment X).

Hertz Rental Vehicle Impact

Reservation Confirmation:

L62420103A8

Supporting documentation attached:

- Reservation confirmation.
- Reminder email dated 22 June 2026 at 07:28.

We prepaid $344.69 for a rental from 24 June 2026 at 17:00 through 29 June 2026 at 12:00 at Kraków Airport. Due to the cancellation of LH467, our arrival was delayed until 26 June 2026 at approximately 09:30, roughly 40.5 hours (~two days) after the scheduled pickup.

Because the rental was prepaid, this delay represents prepaid rental time for which we received no value. A pro-rata estimate of that loss is calculated as follows:

Item	Value
Prepaid rental total	$344.69
Planned rental period	115 hours (24 Jun 17:00 – 29 Jun 12:00)
Delayed pickup period	40.5 hours (24 Jun 17:00 – 26 Jun ~09:30)
Estimated loss of rental value	$121.39

Calculation: $$344.69 \times (40.5 \div 115) = \textbf{$121.39}$

We will still use the vehicle from pickup on 26 June through return on 29 June; this figure reflects only the portion of the prepaid rental period lost due to delayed arrival. We respectfully request review of this amount as an additional documented loss arising from the cancellation.

Documentation relating to this reservation has been included for review.

Submission Attempt — Fast Compensation Form

On 26 June 2026, we attempted to submit this claim via Lufthansa’s Fast Compensation online form (lufthansa.com/us/en/fast-compensation). After completing passenger details, expense entries, and receipt uploads, the form returned an “unexpected error” and did not accept the submission. A screenshot of the error is attached (Attachment Z).

Because the online portal could not process the claim, this package is being submitted by email (and by mail if required), with the same documentation listed in this submission.

Conclusion

The purpose of this submission is to provide a complete factual record of the cancellation of LH467, the resulting delay to our final destination, the expenses incurred as a consequence of the disruption, and the supporting evidence available to substantiate this claim.

The attached materials have been organized chronologically and by category to facilitate review.

I respectfully request review of our entitlement to passenger compensation and reimbursement of documented expenses arising from the cancellation of LH467.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Gordon Kelly
